

I'M RUNNING A HALF MARATHON IN KENYA THAT WILL MAKE A DIFFERENCE! WILL YOU HELP?

I'm travelling to Kenya to participate in the First Annual Mully Half Marathon. Proceeds from the run will help kids who started life in the slums of Kenya attend Mully University College. Here's the bigger story:

Charles Mulli was orphaned at 6 years old, and barely survived in his dusty Kenyan village. An entrepreneur's entrepreneur, Charles by middle age became a wealthy entrepreneur...and... then gave it all away to adopt street kids from the slums. At over 10,000 children Charles and Esther Mulli have, literally, the largest family in the world.

As the Mulli family grew, Charles and Esther increasingly found that local schools were unwilling to take on kids from the slums. Charles's solution was to start his own schools. Over time they became some of the top ranked elementary and high schools in the country! Many of the graduates qualified for post-secondary education and Charles sent scores of them to university. But that is an expensive proposition, so instead he started his own university!

The Mully Half Marathon (10k, 5k) run is an annual event that raised funds to help academically qualified, financially needy young people grow into tomorrow's African leaders. Become part of their story. Please support my run!
